

ABSTRACT

A lidstock for a open sample container having a plurality of slits to form segment intersections that facilitate penetration by an aspiration probe, the segment intersections displaced from the location for penetration by the probe.